C. W. Price, Native Louisvillian With C.I.A., Dies In Switzerland

Served In Navy During War

Charles Whitney Price, who had served in the Central Intelligence Agency since shortly after World War II, died Thursday at Zurich, Switzerland, relatives here said yesterday. He was 43.

Price, a native of Louisville, had been in Europe about a month. He had been treated for ulcers.

He was the grandson of the late Judge Charles F. Price, who served for years at resident steward in charge of racing at Churchill Downs.

A Male High Graduate

Price was a graduate of Louisville Male High School and received his law degree from the University of Virginia.

He entered the Navy as an ensign during World War II and served in Africa and the Pacific. He was a commander when discharged.

Survivors are a son, Charles Michael Price, Washington,

CHARLES W. PRICE

D. C.; his mother, Mrs. Clarence F. Price, and a sister, Mrs. Howard O. Hunn.

The body will be returned here for the funeral. Arrangements are incomplete.
